Wing Commander Aubrey Rickards (1898 - 1937) holds a distinctive place in the annals of British penetration of southern Arabia. But his role is not widely known; he did not live to tell the tale. In 1937 he was killed in an air crash in southern Oman. He was 39, and had already had an eventful career, winning the Air Force Cross for gallantry in Transjordan, and, as we shall see, the OBE. for services in Aden.

Rickards was the son of a Gloucestershire farmer, and was a student at the Royal Agricultural College, Cirencester, when the First World War broke out. He enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps and, after training as a pilot, was sent to France in 1917; a fortnight later his plane was shot down and he spent the rest of the war as a prisoner in Germany.
